Major Charles Sulzowski
Dear Sir,

An American friend is preparing for publication the works of Sigismund Krasiński and wishes to purchase a French or German translation of his "Letters".

She is willing to pay a large price for an old copy. I have tried in Paris and failed to find it. If you could put me in possession of it you would do a great favour to an accident admirer of your Country. The lady (Martha Walter Cook) for two years edited the "Continental" and in that translates several of the poems of Krasinski. I have sent her some French magazines containing others and shall hope through you to obtain the "Lettres".

I shall be in London all this week and will pay for the book through my bankers
if you will kindly answer this and tell me the price of it.

My address is Van Orsdale care of Galton, Stuart & Co & Coleman Street
